What Causes Pimples?
Clogging of the pores or mouths of the sebaceous glands with sebum or oily matter.
The plug of sebum in the centre of the pimple is called a blackhead, grub, or comedone.
Nature will not allow the clogging of the pores to continue long, hence,
Inflammation, pain, swelling and redness, later pus or matter forms, breaks or is opened, the plug comes out and the pore is once more free.
There are thousands of these pores in the face alone, any one of which is liable to become clogged by neglect or disease.

What Cures Pimples?
The only reliable preventive and cure, when not due to a constitutional humor, is

Cuticura Soap.
It contains a mild proportion of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, which enables it to dissolve the sebaceous or oily matter as it forms at the mouths of the pores.
It stimulates the sluggish glands and tubes to healthy activity, reduces inflammation, soothes and heals irritated and roughened surfaces and restores the skin to its original purity.
This is the secret of its wonderful success.
For bad complexions, red, rough hands and shapeless nails, dry, thin and falling hair, scaly and irritated scalps and simple baby blemishes it is wonderful.
It is preserving, purifying and beautifying to a degree hitherto unknown among remedies for the skin and complexion.
Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin and complexion soaps.
Sold throughout the world.

PENSION BUREAU BUSINESS.

Commissioner Lochren Reports on Six Months, Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—A statement prepared at the Pension Bureau shows that since March 4, 1893, the total number of pensions granted was 55,399. Of these, 4128 were issued since August 26, 1893, and comprise 1712 originals and 1497 increases. Of the originals issued to soldiers of the late war, 326 were for disabilities contracted in the service and in line of duty, and 316 were issued under the act of June 27, 1890. The number issued for disabilities contracted in the service was, therefore, 20 in excess of those issued under the Dependent Act.

The Board of Revision is now disposing of an average of about 1600 cases per week of those suspended under the recent orders of the Bureau. At this rate, it is estimated that practically all of those hereafter suspended will be disposed of by October 10. It is also estimated that at least 75 per cent. of those suspended will be retained on the rolls, though not all of them at their old rates of pension.

But with this large number of pensions restored, Commissioner Lochren estimates that the amount appropriated for this year will be enough, and that the only deficiency appropriations required will be $300,000 for special examiners and another appropriation for the fees and expenses of examining surgeons. The totals for the year 1895 are given as follows: For pensions, $160,000,000; for surgeons' fees, $2,000,000; for salaries of pension agents, $72,000; for clerk hire at pension agencies, $500,000; for contingent expenses, $59,570; to al, $162,631,570.

In regard to the suspension of Order 164, Commissioner Lochren says: "In cases where it was believed that a pension could not be sustained, and another medical examination was thought necessary, the payment of the pension was ordered to be suspended pending investigation, according to the practice of the Bureau from the beginning; and at the proper time the usual 60-day notice was given to the pensioner, within which he could ask for a medical examination or supply further evidence of his right to his pension.

"This practice of the Bureau, always followed, is the correct practice. It is not the withdrawal or taking away of a pension, but the temporary withholding of its payment where it appears to be unlawful, pending a proper inquiry. Upon your suggestion that even this temporary withholding might work hardship where, upon the face of the papers, it appears that the pensioner is entitled to at least some less rating, the practice has been modified and changed as to the cases under this act, so far that suspensions of payment pending the 60 days are only ordered when on the face of the papers it appears prima facie that the pensioner is not entitled to any pension."

Precedence is no longer given to cases under the act of June 27, 1890, but claims for pension under the prior laws, for disabilities of service origin, are now adjudicated in their order, where the evidence is complete. So far from holding back this class of claims, the Commissioner thinks they should have precedence, as being older and more meritorious.

He calls attention to the act prohibiting the payment of pensions to non-residents, who are not citizens of the United States, except for actual disabilities incurred in the service, and asks that it be repealed. If all non-residents, he says, were refused payment of pension, some plausible argument might be made in support of such policy; but none can be urged in favor of this law, which, while giving annoyance to all, strikes only the most helpless.

The number of pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1892, was 876,068. During the year since that date 121,630 new pensioners were put upon the rolls; 2004 who had previously been dropped were restored; and 33,690 were dropped for death and other causes. The net increase of pensioners during the year was 89,944; and on June 30, 1893, the number of pensioners on the rolls was 966,012.

Good Man for the Bench.

What is generally pronounced an excellent selection has been made by President Cleveland in the nomination of William B. Hornblower, of New York, to be an associate of the United States supreme court, vice Samuel Blatchford, deceased. Mr. Hornblower is one of the ablest members of the bar of the metropolis.

His great-grandfathers were both signers of the Declaration of Independance. His grandfather was chief justice of New Jersey, and the late Justice Bradley, of the United States supreme court, was an uncle. Mr. Hornblower's father was an eminent divine, who after studying law, decided to become a clergyman, while the son after studying for the ministry, became a lawyer. He is a native of New Jersey and 42 years old, being, with one exception, the youngest man ever appointed to the United States supreme bench. The appointment was wholly unsolicited and came as a surprise to Mr. Hornblower. It is understood that President Cleveland made the selection entirely on his own knowledge of the man and his ability without the usual recommendations and "influence" of prominent persons—Westmorland Democrat.

THE Cleveland Plain Dealer says this: "No shirking, Major McKinley! Did not Grover Cleveland leave $100,000,000 in the treasury when he left the presidential chair? How much did Benjamin Harrison leave? Who got that hundred million during the reign of Benjamin?"

It is announced from Washington that the Secretary of the Treasury has finally fixed upon the ground for the new Mint in Philadelphia. It is to be located at the corner of Broad and Cherry streets, a short distance from the famous City Hall.

CONUNDRUM—What's the difference between a cat and a legal document? Answer—The one has clawses at the end of its pawses; the other has pauses at the end of its clauses.

DEMOCRATIC SOCIETIES.

The Allentown Meeting—Ovation to Vice President Stevenson—Address of Hon. Chauncey F. Black — The Resolutions.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 26.—The general assembly of the Democratic societies of Pennsylvania was called to order in its fifth annual convention at 10.50 o'clock this morning by its president, Chauncey F. Black. For half an hour before that time the academy of music rang with cheers for the Democratic leaders, and a tremendous ovation greeted Vice President Stevenson when he entered the hall. The town had been alive from earliest dawn with bands and newly arriving delegates, and 2,000 people filled the hall at the opening of the convention. President Black immediately delivered an admirable address, which was punctuated with thundering applause.

PRESIDENT BLACK'S ADDRESS.

In calling the assembly to order, Governor Black dwelt at length upon the condition of the Democratic party locally and nationally, opening with a tribute to National Chairman Harrity "under whose steady guidance and in a large measure in consequence of it, the signal victory in 1892 was accomplished." "At the bottom" he said "Pennsylvania is Democratic," and given a truly secret ballot, he predicted there would never be another conflict worth speaking of between the monopolies and the people of Pennsylvania. "We are bound at all events," he declared, "to gain by the continuous and permanent advance of the party elsewhere. The time is here when New England and the great west and the restored south put their peremptory veto upon the policy which robs the farm, the workshop and the home, to gorge the treasuries of the monopolies. A revision of the tariff on constitutional lines, the restoration of a sound currency of gold and silver, in accordance with the Chicago and this year's Harrisburg platforms, will reduce the protected few, whose means have hitherto been poured out to protect their special privileges, to the common level of ourselves and masses of the people. For the first time in a generation all political branches of the federal government are democratic, and in complete accord. Elected under exceptional circumstances, President Cleveland is under no obligation or necessity to compromise with a wrong in any quarter. He is subject to none of the limitations of 1885. He need not consider one state or another unless he sees fit. He is president not of his party only but of his country in a sense and to a degree unknown since Washington. His strength is not in patronage, but in character, principle, and general public confidence, and with the exercise of only reasonable discrimination the opportunity of public service which lies broad and far before him is the greatest ever offered at the moment of the induction to any American president, save the first." Mr. Black predicted that the result of the work at present being performed by the Democratic leaders at Washington would be a united party in the future. "No man," he continued, "not the most eager partisan of the unrepealed Republican legislation which brought on the evils that appall the country, can specify the bit of patronage or the promise of patronage, which has changed a single vote in congress or altered the tone of a single vote in congress, or altered the tone of a single newspaper. The manifestly controlling influence of the administration is due entirely to its high character and to its extraordinary strength with the people. President Cleveland's position is stronger than that of Jefferson or Jackson. Mr. Cleveland in his inaugural pointedly and solemnly rebuked the tendency of the people to look to the government for support and to surrender to it the power and duties which belong to themselves. But everywhere the hands of the people and of the politicians are outstretched towards Washington Everywhere, under federalist laws enacted by our opponents, are oppression, extravagance, dependence, sycophancy. But the principle of the tenth commandment, the principle of Jefferson and the principle of Cleveland, fairly and consistently enforced, will remand the federal government to its proper functions, reduce expenditures and taxes, and lop off all these unconstitutional iniquities."

THE PLATFORM ADOPTED.

Hon. B. F. Meyers, of Harrisburg, chairman of the committee on resolutions, reported the following which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we accept with hearty approval the Chicago platform of last year and the Harrisburg platform of this year; that we endorse and applaud the Democratic administrations of President Cleveland and Governor Pattison; that we call upon our representatives in Congress to support the President in his patriotic effort to secure the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and the revision of the tariff on constitutional lines in the interest of the masses of the people. We demand the rapid and fearless execution of anti-trust laws on the statute books, and enactment of others if any such shall be found necessary. That we reaffirm the arraignment of the Republican party in this state convention for its corrupt obstruction of every reform demanded by the people. That we favor an equalization of taxes in state ballot reform and treasury reform. That we especially commend the deliverance of the Democratic state convention in favor of a non-partisan judiciary and an honest management of the state treasury as important questions of the pending campaign. We declare that in Samuel Gustine Thompson and Frank C. Osburn, we have a ticket absolutely unimpeachable and of which every Democrat can be justly proud.

Resolved, That we congratulate the Democracy of Pennsylvania upon the growth of the Democratic societies of the state and the high and aggressive spirit which pervades them as exhibited by a magnificent demonstration at the general assembly in an off year and at a time of little political excitement. As political contests are rapidly becoming contests of this organization by the formation of Democratic societies covering every political sub-division, these would furnish the state committee with an auxiliary force which would poll the full Democratic vote and carry the state.

Resolved, That we commend to the Democracy of the state the following resolution of the late Democratic state convention: "In accordance with the recommendation of the Democratic national committee, the Democratic state, county, and city organizations of Pennsylvania are advised and directed to further by every means in their power the institution of regular Democratic societies in every election district and the union of such societies."

Resolved, That the chairman of the Democratic national committee and also the chairman of the Democratic state committee are entitled to the gratitude of this organization, especially for the wise and discriminating support they have given to the system of Democratic societies, as well as for their able and efficient services in all other respects during the campaign of the last year, and we further point with pride to the labors of Hon. Chauncey F. Black, both as president of the Pennsylvania Democratic societies and of the national Democratic societies.

Resolved, That this convention records its profound appreciation of the honor done it by the attendance at its sessions of the vice-president of the United States and other distinguished Democrats, and we hail it as evidence of the unity of the Democratic party which knows no north, no south, no east, no west.

Resolved, That to Major John D. Worman we extended our sincerest thanks for his indefatigable labor in behalf of the advancement of the Democratic societies of Pennsylvania.

Holding up the Administration Train.

The "courtesy of the Senate" is being strained to a dangerous point when it is used to cover a pure and simple obstruction to a policy which is not merely that of an administration, but of the overwhelming majority of the American people. It is true that the freedom of debate has been for a century unlimited by any formulated rule of the national Senate. But custom and usage have tempered the liberty of speech, and it has been the practice of Senators under all administrations to recognize the necessity, as a matter of business and common sense, of bringing the longest debate to an end at some time.

The proposition that the Senate, by a special courtesy, has a right of perpetual debate, world without end; that if it chooses it can out-talk an administration and submerge the entire machinery of government in floods of eloquence which no power in the constitution nor in the laws made under it can shut off, is the problem which the silver-mad Senators have presented for the solution of their colleagues. Courtesy of the Senate may have a century of precedent behind it, but in all that century no such use of it has ever been attempted as that which the silver Senators are now contemplating We have seen filibustering in both branches of Congress on many previous occasions. But until now no party has dared to resort to the extreme weapon of a legislative deadlock unless some vital, fundamental issue was at stake, on which the nation was divided on something like even lines, and on which there was at least some ground for believing that the measure antagonized was not indorsed by the majority of the people. The courtesy of the Senate has lasted a hundred years simply because Senators have set a reasonable limit to it themselves, and it would be a shame upon the Senate to be forced to abandon that courtesy because of its abuse.

President Cleveland and the Democratic party have undertaken, at the command of the people, to conduct the national government along certain lines of policy distinctly laid down, discussed and approved in the contest of last year. The stoppage of silver bullion purchases under the Sherman law was clearly proclaimed as a leading feature of the new administration's programme. The President, impelled by a grave commercial crisis, which may at any moment be renewed in a still more acute form, called Congress together and asked it to join with him in carrying out the popular mandate. The House, after reasonable debate, co-operated in good faith to that end. A majority of the Senate is ready and eager to give a like co-operation. But a minority, intent only upon serving the interest of a single industry at the sacrifice of the general prosperity, plants itself in the roadbed of legislation, and, wearing the mask of senatorial courtesy, holds up the administration train and declares that it shall not proceed until the treasury has been laid under further contributions to the silver-mining camps.

What is this, in effect, but the methods of the train robbers applied to legislation? And the American people must reflect—we have no doubt they are already reflecting—that not only is this handful of obstructionists holding up the administration train on the silver question, but on the other and greater tariff-reform question as well. Nothing can be done to carry out the declared will of the majority in the matter of a moderate readjustment of the burdens of unequal and excessive tariff taxation any more than on the subject of silver if a small group of Senators have, as they claim, the power to negative every proposition of the President and every bill passed by the House by the veto of their interminable volubility.

The gauntlet which the champions of free silver are throwing down to the country carries a challenge that goes far beyond the question of one standard or two, and invites a contest for much more than the coinage of silver at one ratio or another. It serves a distinct notice upon the people that the majority may rule at the polls on election day, in the electoral college in the counting of the votes of the States for President, and in the House of Representatives on the passage of any bill that may be presented to it, but that in the Senate chamber majorities are powerless and minorities are masters of their own body as well as of the other two branches of the lawmaking power. The House of Lords has been unjustly held up as making a parallel pretension to this. It has never done so. It has claimed the right, and recently exercised it, to come to a vote expeditiously and reject a popular measure passed by the Commons, once—but only once. On the second presentation of such a measure, ratified by the voice of the people, the Lords have always given way, and it is not doubted that they will do so on the question of home rule.

The silver Senators are far out-lording the Lords. President Cleveland's currency policy was known to the country before his first election. He maintained it firmly all through his first administration. He was elected a second time and it was known then that he still adhered to it. The country has twice indorsed it, and the popular house has approved it by a decisive majority. Yet the silver Senators presume to go on resisting it, and have taken to "the courtesy of the Senate" as a last ditch.

The majority of the Senate is opposed to cloture, but what a humiliation it would be if, in the language of the dispatches, it should in the end "become necessary for the Vice-President to take upon himself the responsibility of deciding whether the Senate of the United States shall do business, or whether it shall confess by its inability to act that government by majorities is a failure"!—*Balto. Silver Coinage.

Mr. Bellzhoover, of this district, has introduced the following bill in the House of Representatives:

A BILL

To provide for the coinage of standard silver dollars and to maintain their parity with the gold dollars of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

That all holders of silver bullion of the value of one hundred dollars or more, and fit for the operations of the mint, shall be entitled to deposit the same for coinage at the mints of the United States and to have the same coined into legal-tender standard silver dollars of six hundred and eighteen and three-fourths grains of standard silver to the dollar on the same terms and conditions on which gold bullion is now deposited and coined.

SEC. 2. That whenever after the passage of this act the market value of six hundred and eighteen and three-fourths grains of standard silver shall equal or exceed in value twenty-five and eight-tenths grains of gold the coinage of standard silver dollars shall begin and continue under the provisions of this act until the market bullion value of said standard silver dollars shall fall to a point more than five per centum below the gold dollar when the coinage of silver shall cease until the ratio shall be restored.

SEC. 3. That all gold and silver coins of the United States of the value of one dollar and upward shall be a legal-tender for all debts, public and private, and be interchangeable at the Treasury at the will of the holder, and the credit of the Government of the United States is hereby pledged to maintain this interchangeable relation of said coins.

Odd-Fellows at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Thirty thousand Odd-Fellows from the United States and Canada came to the World's Fair to-day, and one-third of the number, it is estimated, were in uniform.

Five hundred picked members of the Patriarchs Militant gave an exhibition of trooping and fancy drill, for which the uniformed rank of the Odd-Fellows is famous. The cantons which participated in the competitive drill were the Occidental and Alexander, of Chicago; the Elwood, of Elwood, Ind.; the Oswego, of Oswego, N. Y.; the Frank, of Germantown, Ohio, and the Wright, of Worcester, Ohio. They were put through the manuel of sword facings and alignment, and movements of the line, executing the various movements with precision and promptness. The judges were army and militia officers connected with the exposition.

At the exercises in Festival Hall Grand Master E. S. Conway, of Chicago, chairman of the committee on arrangements, was the presiding officer. After prayer by the Rev. H. W. Bolton, of Chicago, chaplain general of the order, Mayor Harrison delivered a welcoming address and Director-General Davis did the same on behalf of the exposition. Charles S. Thornton extended a fraternal greeting and welcome to the visiting Odd-Fellows as the representative of Chicago lodges. Dr. C. T. Cambell, of London, Ont., sovereign grand sire of the order; W. G. Nye, of Minneapolis, and Charles P. Sanders, of Yonkers, N. Y., responded on behalf of the order at large.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge convened in the National Commission Hall late in the afternoon.

A BLOT ON THE FAIR.—"It's really a beastly shame," said the English visitor at the World's Fair to a reporter. "It's a beastly shame this court of honor has been spoiled, ye know."

"What's the matter with it? Architecture all right?"

"Yes."

"Ain't the color scheme good? Don't you like the statue?"

"Certainly, but——"

"Nothing wrong with the fountains, eh? Obelisk graceful, ain't it? Administration Building imposing, eh? Well, what in goodness' name are you fighting about?"

"Oh, everything's pretty, y'know, and all that," said the Englishman, deprecatingly, "but think of their spelling the word 'honor' without a 'u.'"—Chicago Herald.

The Centennial of the Capitol.

When the original corner stone of the Federal Capitol was laid at Washington, September 18, 1793, by President Washington, just one hundred years ago, the Federal Union had been established four years and the governing powers of the republic had barely broken ground on the great high-way now teeming with epochs and distinctive events—so many mile posts in the history of the nation itself. This is the centennial occasion, Washington introduces to the attention of the country, and bids it pause a brief period while some of the accomplishments and deeds of the past marshal in review.

The birth of the nation's Capitol with Masonic ceremonies was the beginning of a building that has had many changes and passed through many vicissitudes. The result is a growth generally acknowledged one of the finest pieces of architecture in the world. Perhaps the best demonstration of the progress of the republic since the time the Federal Union began to assert its right as a peer among the nations of the earth down to the present time is found in figures that tell a wonderful story. Comparison and fact are potential forces in every centennial anniversary. They are grandeur and glory indeed as applied to the Capitol Centennial in which many thousands will engage.

In 1793 there were 15 States and in 1893 there are 44. A population of 3,929,328 has increased to 67,186,000, occupying an area of 3,580,805 square miles, which in the original was 805,461. Philadelphia was then the largest city in the United States, having a population of 43,520, New York coming second with 33,121, Boston 18,038 and Baltimore 13 503. Chicago, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul were not on the maps, while St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburg were just beginning to be.

New York with a 1,710,715 census, Philadelphia with 1,142,653 and Chicago with 1,099,850 comprise more population than that credited to the country 100 years ago. The Congress of 1793 had 132 members and the Congress now in session has 448 on a ratio of representation of 1 to 173,901 of population to only 30,000 a century ago.

As evidence of the nation's growth here is the money side of the review. In 1793 the receipts into the Treasury were $5,720,624, and in 1893 they are $461,807,788. The expenditures under Washington were $7,529,575, while in Cleveland's like year they amount to $459,461,114. From imports then the aggregate was $31,000,000, and it is now $860,361,421. The exports were valued at $26,109,000, and now the total is $847,508,024. Washington was satisfied with 209 post office appointments, while Cleveland has 97,119 at his disposal. The revenue from post offices then was $104,747 and expenditures $72,040. The revenue is $75,989,160 and the expenditures $81,529,543. There were 19 colleges then and 597 now. Public schools were among the unknown, along with railroads, the telegraph and telephone. In public schools alone for the year 1893 there are 13,010,139 pupils enrolled, with 369 634 teachers in charge.

Comparisons could be continued almost indefinitely, but the picture is complete as it is. The 174,750 miles of railroad now alone shows the marvelous development made since the 5,643 miles of postroad accommodated the travel of the country in 1793. We are a great nation and a great people, republic with an ever-rising sun, a people prosperous and happy, a union of States one and inseperable. This is a day indeed for glory and gratulation. "Old Hundred" is the popular air as never before—"Praise God from whom all blessings flow."—Phila. Times.

TO THE POINT.—The Philadelphia Record illustrates the subject after this fashion: If we have been buying gold and paying for it with 60-cent wheat, let not the farmer cry out against Democratic Administration. Democracy is not responsible for 60 cent wheat, nor 60-cent dollars, nor 12-cent wool. These things have come upon us as the legitimate offspring of thirty years of interference with legitimate trade and defiance of the rules of honest finance. Four times in the past twenty years the business of the country has been disturbed by panics for which Republican legislation was alone responsible. It has not been in the power of the Democrats at any time since 1861 to put in force remedial legislation until the present Congress was brought together in extra session.

A HARD QUESTION SOLVED.—"How could two persons be born at the same time and die at the same time, at the end of fifty years, and yet one of them live a hundred days more than the other?" is a query propounded to the writer the other day. Can you tell? Perhaps not. Well, the answer turns out upon the familiar fact that a person who goes around the world toward the west loses a day, while the person who travels in the opposite direction gains a day. We will suppose then, that two men in question were born in New York, from whence a trip around the world may easily be made once a year. One of them goes always toward the west, the other toward the east. One loses a day every year, the other gains a day every year. When the men die, after fifty years of age, one has seen one hundred days more than the other.—Exchange.

OUTING for October opens with an interesting article, "Sketching Among the Sioux," descriptive of the life and methods of the brown nomads of the great plains, as seen by a party of artists. The illustrations are numerous and good. Other notable features of an excellent number are: "Antaeus," by Frank M. Bicknell; "A Century Ride," by Grace E. Denison; "A Mixed Bag," by Ed W. Sandys, and "A Deer-Hunt in Old Virginia," by Alex Hunter. The frontispiece, illustrating "A Mixed Bag," is more than a capital picture—it is a silent sermon in favor of women sharing in men's sport sfield, and finding that glorious health which Diana of to-day is sure to enjoy.

EDWARD BOK receives one of the largest personal mails in the country, a year's mail consisting of over 20 000 letters. Three-fourths of these letters are from women. No part of this huge mail reaches Mr. Bok directly; it is opened by a private secretary and distributed to assistants for answer. Every letter, however, receives a reply. One of Mr. Bok's editors on The Ladies' Journal Ruth Ashmore, who writes to girls, receives over 5000 letters during a year.

THE CLEARING.

The day was dark and dreary,
The skies o'ercast with gray,
The rain came down in torrents,
But now, at close of day,
The rain has ceased its falling,
And clouds have rolled away.

Where the clouds have silent parted
Shines the blue of the skies,
As clear and pure and peaceful
As a pair of deep blue eyes,
Tinted and streaked with golden,
As daylight softly dies.

And over the dome of heaven
Flashes the sunset bright,
Tinting the clouds with glory,
With gold and crimson light,
As an angel had touched, in passing,
The skies, with her wing of white.

An angel of light and glory
Has touched the clouds of gray;
Has parted the heavy curtain
And rolled it quite away,
And has left the trace of her fingers
To light the dying day.

Like a life that is dark and dreary
Is this dark and rainy day;
And like Life's trials and sorrows
Are these dark clouds of gray,
Let us hope, at its close, the angels
May clear them all away.

And although the life be dreary
As darkly curtained skies,
With never a gleam of sunshine
To gladden weary eyes,
The end may be bright and peaceful,
As daylight softly dies.

ANNIE WELTY.

Bismarks's Love of Music.

Prince Bismark years ago said that his favorite musical instrument was a hand organ. He did not mean by that remark, however, that he was no admirer of the "heavenly maid." On the contrary, the ex-chancellor is a great lover of music and musicians. In the course of a speech to the members of Gesang Verein Orpheus of Bremen a few days ago he paid a high tribute to the art, recognizing its aid in shaping the destinies of Germany, and in carrying out his far-reaching plans.

"In music," said the prince among other things, "I am unfortunaly not your equal, In the multitude of things I was compelled to study in my youth, music was neglected. But despite that I love it. I am thankful to music because it helped me so effectually in my political efforts.

"The sound of the German song won the hearts. I count it, in fact, among the aids which led to the success of our strife for union. Practical examples are not always easy to cite, but the first which I now recall is that of the Becker Rinesong in 1841. The influence was mighty. The rapid adoption of the song by the people—then mostly particularists—had the effect of two army corps. Later came the 'Wacht am Rhein.' The singing of that war song on the battlefields in Winter, when food was scarce, strengthened the heart of many a soldier, and the heart-feeling is everything in battle. Therefore I do not wish the German song to be overlooked as one of the war aids of the future. I wish to thank you for the aid given me by German singers in appreciating the national idea and carrying it beyond the borders of the Fatherland. We should hardly have remained in such close relations to Vienna and not Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven lived there and created a bond of art between the Lower Rhine and Vienna.

"Yes," added the Prince, "our relations to our third ally, Italy, were of a musical nature before they became political. I am no enemy of Italian music, despite my preference of the German school; on the contrary, I am an admirer of it. In this sense I thank you as the guardians of music—continue to cultivate it. The German cannot resist the effect of song. He is in the proper humor when he hears music.

"It is a fortunate thing that our ruling families are not enemies, but cultivators, of music. This art would not have reached so high a state of perfection in our country had it not always been cultivated by the ruling families."

She Was Engaged.

The other girls had been talking about her, and when she came in smiling and a little self-conscious they clustered eagerly about her.

"Did he leave you at the door?" querried the girl with the slim waist.

"Shall you call him John or Jack?" asked the girl with the black eyes.

"Oh, do tell me, did he kiss you before or after he proposed?" fluttered the girl with the straight nose.

"Oh, girls, I"——

"Did he say he never proposed to a girl before?"

"Of course he did—why, the marriage positively wouldn't be legal if he didn't say that when he proposed!"

"Did he say that he loved you as man never loved woman before?"

"Did he go about asking your father as if he had ever done it before?"

"Oh, girls, you"——

"I knew you were engaged by the way in which took you his arm last evening."

"And I knew it by the fact that he did not go away to smoke with the other men after dinner."

"When did he first"——

"Do tell us what he"——

"Girls, girls, I"——

"Does Gertie make you leave the long parlor to her now that you are engaged?"

"How do you manage to look surprised when he"——

"Oh, dear, you"——

"Girls, she has her ring already, she is hiding her left hand."

"Oh, oh, how lovely!"

"Ain't it sweet—he must love you awfully to give you a ring like that," cried the girl with the black eyes.

"He selected the stone and had it set after a design of his own," said the newly affianced, blushing. "He said I should not have just like anybody else."

"How lovely of him! Did you ask the jeweler how much it is worth?" asked the girl with the straight nose. "Susie pretended that hers was too large and took it back on purpose to find out how much Wilson had paid for it, and, would you believe it, he hand't got it at the place he told her!"

"How mean!" cried the girl with the slim waist, "he knew she would do that and did it on purpose so she wouldn't know what he paid for it."

"Of course; men are so shy."

"But wasn't that lovely of Jack? I am sure a man with a mustache like that would make a delightful lover."

"But, Effie, how did he know the size?"

"Oh, he borrowed one of my rings, of course I knew what it was for, though I pretended not. I was awfully glad he did not select the one that Phil gave me."

"I should think so! But aren't you afraid that it will be stolen?"

"Yes, indeed; I keep that hand under the pillow at night!"

"Well, a ring like that is positively economical; it is such a saving in gloves," said the girl with the black eyes.

"Yes, indeed, but what I like best is the fact that nobody else ever had one like it."

As she spoke the newly affianced walked over to the girl with the golden hair, who had all this time been looking idly out of the window.

"Don't you want to see my ring. Annie?" she asked with a note of triumph in her voice.

"Thanks, dear," was the smiling reply, "I am glad you like it so much. By the way, you must be very careful of it, the setting is not very secure—I lost the stone once or twice while I was wearing it last year."

Then, in the midst of a silence which could be heard, she turned again to the window.—Chicago Tribune.

Indiana's 1,000 Lakes.

A person might look on the map until he was blind without discovering the curious fact, too insignificant from a geographical view to be taken into account in the general topographical date that, huddled together in the northeastern corner of Indiana are more than 1000 natural lakes, ranging in size from ten to 100 acres. They are all within the boundaries of Steuben, DeKalb, Lagrange, Noble and Kosciusko Counties, 312 of them being in Noble County alone. Such is the isolation of this extraordinary group of lakes that the average Indiana citizen, outside of the small area in which the system is situated, is unaware of its existence. It is entirely separate from the river system of the State, and corresponds in character with that famous group of lakes in Orange and Sullivan Counties, N. Y., and Wayne and Pike Counties, Penn.—literally great springs of crystal water, with bottoms of the whitest sand. The wild charm of mountain environment that is the characteristic of their Eastern counterparts is lacking, however, in the Indiana lakes although they occupy the highest situation in the State.

Nowhere else in Indiana is there a lake of any size whatever. These sheets of water are the natural homes of the small-mouth black bass, and ex-Fish Commissioner Dennis, of that State, declares that the small-mouth black bass that inhabits the waters of every part of the country came from that group of lakes. Nowhere else on the continent have these fish been caught equal in size to those taken from Indiana waters. The largest small-mouth black bass of which there is any record was caught this season in Sylvan Lake, at Rome City, by Sidney E. Smith of that place. It weighed nine and a half pounds. Last season Dr. Moyer, of Kendallville, took one in the same lake that weighed nine pounds. Sylvan Lake that is the largest of the Indiana waters, its natural size having been enlarged by draining to make it a supply reservoir in the days of canal navigation. It is five miles long and a mile wide.—New York Sun.

A BEE AND BIRD DUEL.—Next to a battle of ants, where the tiny creatures fight in regiments; about the smallest battle that can be imagined is a duel between a bee and a humming bird over the honey in a flower garden. The battle occurred in Portland, Ore., where a humming bird with an angry dash expressed its disapproval of the presence of a big bumble bee in the same tree.

An observer thus describes it: The bee fled, but he did not leave the tree. He dashed back and forth among the branches and white blossoms, the humming bird in close pursuit. Where will you find another pair that could dodge and dart equal to these? They were like flashes of light, yet the pursuer followed the track of the pursued, turning when the bee turned. In short, the bird and the bee controlled the movements of their bodies more quickly than he could control the movement of his eyes. The chase was over in half the time that it takes to tell it, but the excitement of a pack of hounds after a fox was no greater. The bee escaped, the bird giving up the chase and alighting on a twig. It couldn't have been chasing the bee for food, and there is no possible explanation of its unprovoked attack except that it wished to have all the honey itself.—Harper's Young People.

LAUGH.—Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. A well-told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sick room. Learn to keep your own troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows. Learn to stop croaking. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself. Learn to hide your pains and aches under a pleasant smile. No one cares to hear whether you have the earache, headache, or rheumatism. Don't cry. Tears do well enough in novels, but they are out of place in real life. Learn to meet your friends with a smile. ECONOMIES WROUGHT BY CHEMISTRY.—Chemists turn scrap iron into ink, old bones into lucifer matches, the shavings of the blacksmith's shop into Prussian blue, fusel oil into oil of apples and pears, the drainings of cow houses into fashionable perfumery, beggars' rags into new pilot coats, cesspool filth into ammonia, and tar waste into aniline dyes and saccharine. In Paris, they first utilize rats to clear the flesh from the bones of carcasses, then kill the rats, use up their fur for trimmings, their skin for gloves, their thigh bones for tooth picks, and their tendons and bones for gelatine wrappers. These are a few of the things Iron Industrial Gazette names among the products converted into use by the chemist and inventor.—Scientific American

SUIT TO RECOVER $3 000 000.—A suit to recover about $3,000,000 from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was begun in the Dauphin county court on Wednesday by attorneys representing William Bill, the once famous canal builder. Bill has been dead for thirty-one year and his heirs, who at various times have tried to recover the vast sum have died before the litigation came to a head. Miss Moorhead, of Allegheny, a granddaughter of William Bill, has possession of the contracts, etc., which furnish the basis for the big claim.

About 1860 a statement was rendered containing an itemized account of the indebtedness. It showed money due the contract amounting to over $1 000,000 Owing to a slight error in the report the settlement was postponed. The war broke out about this time, and in the excitement the account was overlooked. Bill died in 1862.

THE ARAB'S DONKEY.—One sees Arabs coming into Constantinople with a donkey load of wood, which they sell for 3 francs. They have come 25 miles with it, sell it, and next day ride the donkey back. As a meal costs them but 2 cents the wood nothing, and the donkey does all the work, what seems a small profit is really a good one. And who is it that earns it?

All saddle beasts in the east go what our Anglomaniacs call "artificial" gaits; in fact, three-fourths of all the animals in the world do so. Mules which are ridden always "sidle" or amble, all donkeys running, walk, rack or amble. But nowhere except in our southern states have these gaits been studied as an art, improved on and bred from.—Colonel T. A. Dodge in Harper's.

Don't Forget Your Taxes.

The imperative duty of every Democrat now is to see that his taxes are paid on or before Saturday next. One of his dearest rights, that of voting, depends on his compliance with the laws on this subject, and under the law SATURDAY NEXT, OCTOBER 7TH, is the last day when this can be done. While we urge upon all Democrats the importance of active work for the whole ticket from this until the election, the important matter just now is—PAY YOUR TAXES.

THE near approach of the election furnishes an admonition to every Democrat of his duty to his party and the necessity of active work from this time on until the 7th of November. The election this fall is a very important one to the county and the party, and no one should underestimate his duty to secure the triumphant election of the entire ticket.

The ticket is a most worthy one, from beginning to end, and the individual candidates are all gentlemen of high standing in their communities, and peculiarly fitted for their respective offices. Give them your hearty support.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29, 1893.

Editor of Compiler: Senators Voorhees, Gorman and Palmer, at different times this week took occasion to defend President Cleveland from the newspaper charge, which Senator Stewart mistakenly dignified by reading in the Senate, of attempting by the use of patronage to control the legislative branch of the government. Of course everybody in Washington knows as well as these three Senators do that President Cleveland needs no defense, but there may be people elsewhere who are liable to be misled by constant reiteration of the charge. When Senator Palmer told Senator Stewart that if he would name one Senator who had been controlled by the President through patronage he would gladly join him in getting a resolution passed providing for an investigation, Senator Stewart did not name a Senator. Why? Simply because he knew of none. Senator Gorman's few remarks on the subject covered the case fully. He said: "I am not the mouthpiece of the President. His patronage I know nothing of or care nothing for. I neither have it nor want it. No President has ever been so careful to avoid the appearance of distributing patronage for his own ends. He has scarcely done his party justice."

Everybody has heard of that frequently mentioned article, "Senatorial courtesy," but with all due respect to the eminent and dignified gentlemen who compose the U. S. Senate it must be said that "Senatorial discourtesy" more truly applies to the numerous "tifs" between Senators which have been such a feature of the debate this week. Space forbids their enumeration, but one specimen will give a general idea of all them. Senator Wolcott referred to Senators Gorman and Aldrich as steerers of the Senators who favor the Voorhees repeal bill, and told of their having decided to begin next week holding twelve-hour sessions of the Senate. Senator Gorman in reply said: "This is the first time that I have ever known a Senator or his agents to listen at the committee room doors to tell the Senate of the private conferences of Senators on any subject whatever."

The ultimate fate of the Voorhees bill is still very much in doubt. Cloture is a two-edged weapon, and although its present adoption would be of great benefit to the Democratic party it is not probable that Senator Platt's resolution will even be reported back from the committee on Rules, to which it was referred, and without cloture there is small probability that the bill will ever be voted upon without the consent of its opponents. Can that consent be obtained? That is a question that only the future can answer, but Senators have confidence that it will be obtained through a movement now on foot among Democratic Senators who favor the bill. This movement contemplates getting the consent of the opponents of the bill to the taking of a vote in exchange for the promise of enough votes to make the passage of a silver bill, something on the order of Senator Faulkner's proposed amendment to the Voorhees bill, a certainty immediately after the Voorhees bill is passed.

The House began the debate on the Tucker bill for the repeal of the Federal election laws according to programme, and so far it has been conducted upon constitutional grounds, although it may get down to partizanship any hour. Although it will not alter or postpone the result, the order under which the House is acting making October 9th the last day of the debate, the absence of a quorum of Democrats at times is enough to aggravate the party leaders and to justify the adoption of a proposition which has been made, to keep a record of the absentees and to see that their constituents are informed through the party papers in their districts of every day's absence without leave. This would be troublesome to the Congressmen, but just to their constituents.

The House Committee on Banking and Currency after mature deliberation decided that more information should be obtained by the committee before it reported any financial bill to the House. In accordance with that decision the committee has given Representative Oates a hearing on his bill for the repeal of the tax on state bank currency and has listened to an argument by Representative McLaurin in favor of his proposition to issue $125,000,000 in greenbacks to increase the currency in circulation. The chairman of the committee has been requested to obtain as much information as possible from the various state governments on the subject of state banks.

The sensational statements concerning the nomination of Mr. J. J. Van Alen to be Ambassador to Italy will doubtless be investigated by the Senate committee on Foreign Relations before his nomination is acted upon. No one believes that either President Cleveland or ex-Secretary Whitney was a party to any promise made to give Mr. Van Alen this position because of his having made a large campaign contribution, and an investigation will probably show that no such promise was made by anybody.

DEM.

THE Democratic State Convention of Maryland met in Baltimore Wednesday. It indorsed the administration of President Cleveland, asked for the repeal of objectionable provisions of the Sherman act and of federal election laws, placed itself on record for tariff revision, promised a new assessment law for Maryland and renominated Comptroller Smith.

The Border Claim Bill.

The many sufferers in this county will be glad to know that the House Committee on War Claims has directed Congressman Beltzhoover, of this district, to report favorably his bill appropriating $3,447,943 for the payment of damages sustained by citizens of the border counties from Federal and Confederate forces during the late war. These claims grew out of three expeditions into the State: 1862, by General Stuart; 1863, by General Lee, and in 1864 by General Early.

The losses of the several counties by raids have been tabulated as follows:

CLEVELAND TO GOVERNOR NORTHEN.

A CLEAR STATEMENT OF THE PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ON THE FINANCIAL QUESTION.

Governor Northen, of Georgia, recently wrote to the President, asking him for a more comprehensive utterance on the financial question. In reply Mr. Cleveland replied as follows:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Hon. J. W. Northen—My Dear Sir: I hardly know how to reply to your letter of the 15th inst. It seems to me that I am quite plainly on record concerning the financial question. My letter accepting the nomination to the Presidency, when read in connection with the message lately sent to Congress in extraordinary session, appears to me very explicit. I want a currency that is stable and safe in the hands of our people. I will not knowingly be implicated in a condition that will justly make me in the least degree answerable to any laborer or farmer in the United States for a shrinkage in the purchasing power of the dollar he has received for a full dollar's worth of work, or for a good dollar's worth of product of his toil.

I not only want our currency to be of such a character that all kinds of dollars will be of equal purchasing power at home, but I want it to be of such a character as will demonstrate abroad our wisdom and good faith, thus placing us upon a firm foundation and credit among the nations of the earth. I want our financial conditions and the laws relating to our currency safe and reassuring that those who have money will spend and invest it in business and new enterprises instead of hoarding it. You cannot cure fright by calling it foolish and unreasonable, and you cannot prevent the frightened man from hoarding his money. I want good, sound and stable money, and a condition of confidence that will keep it in use.

Within the limits of what I have written I am a friend of silver, but I believe its proper place in our currency can only be fixed by a readjustment of our currency legislation and the inauguration of a consistant and comprehensive financial scheme. I think such a thing can only be entered upon profitably and hopefully after the repeal of the law which is charged with all our financial woes. In the present state of the public mind this law cannot be built upon nor patched in such a way as to relieve the situation.

I am, therefore, opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver by this country alone and independently, and I am in favor of the immediate and unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the so-called Sherman law.

I confess I am astonished by the opposition in the Senate to such prompt action as would relieve the present unfortunate situation.

My daily prayer is that the delay occasioned by such opposition may not be the cause of plunging the country into deeper depression than it has yet known, and that the Democratic party may not be justly held responsible for such a catastrophe.

Yours, very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

THE Republican State League of Clubs is for Cameron and his free silver notions. At the convention of the League in Reading, on Wednesday, a resolution denouncing Cameron for his disobeying the instructions of the State Convention, to support the bill repealing the Silver Purchasing act, was lost in the committee, by a vote of 17 to 8.

HON. GEO. B. MCCLELLAN, president of the New York Board of Aldermen and son of the illustrious first commander of the Army of the Potomac, heads the 12th Assembly district delegation of the metropolis to the Democratic State Convention.

JOHN E. RUSSELL was nominated for Governor of Massachusetts by the Democratic State Convention at Boston Wednesday. Governor William E. Russell made an address congratulating the convention on its choice.

SHOULD GO AT ONCE.—Some hysterical organs of the opposition have become terribly excited over the movement of the Democrats in Congress to repeal the Federal Elections law. It is, they exclaim, a dreadful and malign "conspiracy." It is, indeed, a conspiracy in the broadest sense. As Burke Bethel said, with some etymological confusion: "It comes from two Latin words—con, to breathe, and spiro, together." There has been a mighty breathing together from all ends of the land, and this is the conspiration that has influenced Congress to repeal the Federal Elections law. It is a conspiracy that needs for its execution neither the brand of vengeance nor the dagger of the assassin. Public opinion, the only omnipotent conspirator, in a free country, has demanded that the Federal Elections law shall be repealed. Congress is simply recording the decree of the people in regard to this law.—Phila. Record.

THE question of the hour, with the Democrat who desires to vote is—have you paid your taxes?

Reformed Congress at Chicago.

From Reformed Church Messenger.

The Presentation of the Reformed church in the United States was held in Washington Hall in the Art Palace of Chicago on Thursday, the 21st ult., at 10 a. m. The Synod of the Interior, which was at that time in session in the Reformed Tabernacle very courteously adjourned its session for the day, and attended the meeting in a body. A number of ministers and members from other parts of the church were also present, so that, though the attendance was not as large as it ought to have been, it is believed to have been equal to the average present at the Presentation of other religious denominations.

Rev. Dr. J. O. Miller presided at the opening of the Congress, and afterwards the chair was taken at his request by Rev. A. M. Schmidt. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Love, of Wichita, Kansas. The introductory paper had been written by Rev. William Rupp, D. D., but in his absence it was read by Rev. D. B. Shuey. Rev. J. H. Dubbs, D. D., of Lancaster, Pa., read the next paper on the "Progress of a Century." Rev. Dr. T G. Apple was unavoidably absent, but his paper on the History o our Theology was read by Rev. Dr. J O Miller.

Rev. Prof. Frank Grether, of the Mission House at Franklin, Wis., presented a German paper, which he was excused from reading, accompanying the presentation with some pleasant remarks in English.

The concluding paper on the Benevolent and Practical operations of the church was read by Rev. E R. Eschbach, D D., of Frederick, Md.

The Congress adjourned with the united repetition of the Lord's Prayer, singing of the Doxology and the benediction.

The meeting was interesting and encouraging especially as showing the progress of the Reformed church in every direction. Its chief importance lies in the fact that the essays will be published in the official volume, and that the Reformed church will in this way receive the credit which is due. H.

The World's Fair.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Director General George R. Davis, of the World's Columbian Exposition, is in Washington to endeavor to induce President Cleveland to attend the closing of the Fair, October 31.

Director General Davis said to a reporter: "I hope to see President Cleveland and will use every effort to induce him and Mrs. Cleveland to be present at the closing of the Fair. It seems to me that the Chief Magistrate of the nation, having opened it, should also close it. I would like to have President Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland to go out to Chicago without the public knowing it, but that is impossible."

In speaking of the attendance at the Fair, the Director-General said: "It has been quite good all along. I look for very, very large crowds in October. September was thought to be the best month of all, but it will not compare with October. Mark my prophecy. We count on about 150,000 visitors every day at the Fair.

"Illinois and Pennsylvania Days were the heaviest and yet no trouble was experienced in handling the great crowds. Let me say here that we feel very grateful to Pennsylvania. She has done her part well toward making the Exposition a success and her exhibit is fully as magnificent as any at the Fair."

ANOTHER WORLD'S FAIR.—Washington, September 30.—New York may have a World's Exposition if she wants it, without controversy or competition. General Wheeler, of Alabama, to-day introduced a bill which provides that "in order to commemorate the beginning of the twentieth century of the existence of Christain religion, and by appropriate ceremonies to express the profound reverence and thanks of the people for the advanced civilization and inestimable blessings vouchsafed to mankind by Christian teachings and example, a World's Exposition shall be held in the city of New York, commencing as soon after January 1, 1900, as the Legislature of New York may prescribe, and continuing during so much of said year as may be provided by such Legislature."

A PRIVATE CAR CRUSHED.—Bellevue, Mich., Sept. 27.—A bad accident occurred on the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railroad at the station here at 2 o'clock this morning. Express train No. 5, west bound, which was two hours late, was standing at the station when it was run into by the Erie express, also west bound, demolishing a special car attached to train No. 5. The special car contained Cashier Meredith, of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Road, and his wife; Henry A. Newland and wife, father and mother of Mrs. Meredith; Wm. Costles, porter, and Wm. Abernathy, cook. The Newland party left Detroit last night for a ten days' visit to the World's Fair. Mr Newland is the senior member of the firm of Henry A. Newland & Co., wholesale fur dealers, of Detroit. The special car was telescoped. The roof was hurled into the ticket office of the station, completely demolishing it. Mr. and Mrs. Newland were instantly killed. The colored porter was injured internally. A large piece of wood was driven into his groin. He cannot live. Mr. and Mr. Meredith were badly bruised and shaken up, but it is not thought their injuries will result fatally.

THE LAW AS TO DOGS.—Judge Furst, of the District composed of Centre and Huntingdon cos. has rendered the following decision in regard to dogs: Mrs. Kate Brown brought suit against Wesley Straw for shooting her dog. The animal was a valuable one, as it protected her property and she always took him along with her when she was by herself. The dog went away and strayed into Straw's barn yard, where he gave a flock of sheep trouble. Straw shot the dog. The judge ruled that while the dog was a valuable one to Mrs. Brown, he was trespassing on another man's property, and as the law gave every man the right to shoot a dog when annoying sheep, the defendant should be acquitted.

DON'T quarrel with people for groaning when they suffer from Rheumatism or Neuralgia; the pain is simply terrible; no ancient torture was more painful; but people ought to be blamed if having Rheumatism or Neuralgia and won't use Red Flag Oil; it has cured hundreds of sufferers and costs only 25 cents at A. A FRIEND

Speaks through the Boothbay (Me.) Register, of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Suicide.

On Friday evening, about 5 o'clock, while the rest of the family were engaged in the barn and house, Mr. Wm. A. Hake, living in Highland township, near McKnightstown station, committed suicide, while on the steps leading to the attic of an outstanding wash-house. Mrs. Hake was engaged at sewing in the house, about twenty feet away, and missing Mr. Hake, went over to the wash-house to see where he was. She found him on the steps, but saw nothing wrong. She returned to her work and shortly after heard the report of a gun. She ran to the wash-house, and opening the the stair door, saw her husband sitting on the stairs, facing the door, the muzzle of the gun proping the body in erect position, with the whole top of his head blown off and the gun grasped in his hand. The ram-rod was standing between his legs and the surroundings showed that he loaded the musket, placed the muzzle between his eyes and with the ram-rod touched the trigger. The cause of this rash act is supposed to have been melancholy from which he has suffered for some time. He was in Gettysburg the same day and seemed to be somewhat depressed. He leaves a widow and nine children to mourn his untimely demise. His age was about fifty years and he was a member of company B. 138 Pa. Vol. and three times wounded in battle. His remains were interred at Flohr's church yesterday morning, attended by a committee from Post 9, G. A. R., to which he belonged, including Capt. G. A Earnshaw, Peter Thorn, W. P. Biesecker, Peter Deardorff and others of his company, Wm H. Rupp, Wm H. Frock and others of the Post.

Killed by the Train.

Information reaches us that the W. M train due here from Highfield at 8 47 when approaching Fairfield this morning struck Mr. Joseph Musselman, Sr., living about ½ mile west of that station, throwing him off to the side of the road and causing his death. He had been seen by the engineer walking some distance from the track when suddenly he tried to cross it, too close to stop the train. He was thrown some distance to the side, the train was immediately stopped and going back he was found in a dying condition. The section hands were at work near the scene of the accident and were directed by conductor Peter A. Sheads to carry him to his home near by.

Leiper, President of the organization, and made the McClellan House their headquarters. In the evening one of the most interesting and enjoyable camp-fires of the summer was held in the Court-house, secretary and treasurer Sweinfort presiding. The programme was made up of songs, addresses and humorous recitation, the piano used being furnished by J. W. Eicholtz & Co. On Sunday the party visited the battlefield, under Capt. Long, making a special point of their monument on the Emmitsburg road, at the extreme left of the Union lines. They left yesterday afternoon after a very enjoyable revisit to our historic field.

Foot-Ball; Cornell vs. Gettysburg.

On Saturday the Gettysburg College foot-ball team of this place, played Cornell University at Ithica, N. Y., on Cornell's athelectic field. The game was the first of the season for the home team, and was a hard played one from start to finish and furnished quite a surprise to the Cornelliane. Gettysburg's average weight was only 155 pounds while Cornell's was 175 pounds. Yet, notwithstanding this great difference in avoirdupois, a sharp, snappy game was played and Cornell had to work hard for each point scored.

The game commenced at 3 o'clock and consisted of two thirty minute halts. In the first half Cornell scored one touch-down and goal, the half ending with the score 6 to 0 in favor of Cornell. In the second half two touch-downs and one goal, making ten points, were scored by Cornell, thus making the final score 16 to 0, in favor of Cornell. Gettysburg quite frequently threatened Cornell's goal and it was only by the hardest kind of playing that they were prevented from scoring. The umpire and referee were both Cornell students and their decisions were all rather favorable to the home team.

Messrs. Moser, Byers, Nicholas, Rank. Lesher, Culp & Menges, Rodisill (Capt.), Enders, Apple, Aukerman and Mottern, were the players for Gettysburg.

—The team leaves this afternoon to play the University of Pennsylvania to-morrow.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.—The street lighting commenced regularly Sunday night, and while the machinery is new and does not work as smoothly as might be desired, the lighting is an improvement over that which we have had. The result would be much more satisfactory if our shade trees lining the streets were generally trimmed.

The incandescent lights have been put in many business places and hotels and are doing fairly well, though not as strong as was first expected.

ADAMS COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY met on Monday at the Court-house and elected the following officers: Dr. Geo. L. Rice, of McSherrystown, Prest; Dr. Henry Stewart, of Gettysburg, Rec. Sec; Dr. J. J. Snyder, of McSherrystown, Cor. Sec.; Dr. E W. Mumma, of Bendersville, Treas. The next meeting will be held on Monday. Nov. 6, at 1 p. m., in the Court-house, at which several interesting papers will be read.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.—At the regular meeting of Corporal Skelly Post, No. 9, last evening Hon. W. T. Zeigler offered resolutions, which were adopted, requesting Dept. Commander Sample to reconsider his vote cast for the location of the Orphans' Industrial School at Scotland and endeavor to have the same changed to Boiling Springs, Cumberland county.

This change would not only bring this important establishment nearer to Gettysburg, but it would be more centrally located an more easy of access, as being closer to the State Capital.

THE SICKLES SUIT.—Last week Geo J. Benner, Esq., and Hon. David Wills, attorneys for Wm. H. Tipton, filed the plaintiff's statement, claiming $10 000 damages against Gen. Daniel E. Sickles. The claim grows out of the difficulty caused by Mr. Tipton's attempt to photograph the 44th and 12th New York monument, when he was interfered with by Gen. Sickles and others as given in these columns at the time. S. Mc. Swope, Esq., has been retained as counsel for Gen. Sickles, and the case has been placed on the trial list, to come up at November Common Pleas Court.

PROHIBITION MEETINGS.—Oct. 4, Arendtsville; Oct. 7, Biglerville; Oct. 11, New Oxford; Oct. 13, Quarry school-house; Oct. 18, McCleary's school-house; Oct. 20, Rock Creek chapel; Oct. 25, Boyd's school-house; Oct. 27. Littlestown. All the above meetings to be addressed by Mr. Wm D. Ernest, of Pennsylvania College, president of the Inter-Collegiate Prohibition Association. Rev. Reinewalt will speak at McCleary's and Rock Creek the same time as the above speaker does. 1t

RECEPTION.—The reception following the Mayer—Martin wedding, at the home of the happy couple, on High street, was largely attended and very much enjoyed by all present. Among those from a distance were Mr. Jacob A. Mayer and sister Gertrude C., of York, and Miss Bernadetta, of Lancaster Academy. The COMPILER force sends thanks for delicious cake.

ON Saturday night, while out in pasture one of Jacob L Dougherty's horses got its front foot in the barb wire fence, cutting the leg from the pastern joint to the hoof, and exposing the joints and leaders.

HURT.—Last week Wm. T. Stambaugh was thrown from a car in the P. & R. yard and received an ugly scalp wound over the forehead, tearing the scalp from the skull. Dr. J. B. Scott attended.

ANOTHER ENTERPRISE.—The York Gazette of Friday has the following paragraph:

A number of Yorkers are talking of opening a sandstone quarry in Adams county. The stone is similar to the Hummelstown variety.

We are not advised as to its location, but it is a source of congratulation that along with one boundless supply of enduring granite, our county has this popular building stone.

Unfurling of the Flag.

The flag-staff from which will fly the U S. flag at Gen. Meade's Headquarters arrived on Wednesday, three cars being necessary to haul it, and its erection was completed on Saturday. The main pole is 105 feet and the top one 55, it is sunk 10 feet in the ground, leaving 150 feet clear. On its top is a burnished bronze ball. The pole is of Oregon pine and was turned at Cramps' ship-yard, Philadelphia.

The ceremonies incident to the unfurling will be held on Thursday, Oct. 5, by the Loyal Legion, Commandery of Pennsylvania. The party will leave Philadelphia Oct. 4, and spend the day at Reading. Their special train will arrive here via P. & R. R. at 11.20 a. m. on Thursday. The electric cars will convey them to Meade's Headquarters, where the following will be the programme:

Salute, Light Battery "C," 3d United States Artillery; Music, "Hail Columbia;" Prayer, Chaplain H. C. McCook; Address, Brevet Maj.-Gen. D. McM. Gregg, Commander, presiding; Address, Hon. Robert E Pattison, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; Music, "Star-Spangled Banner;" Unfurling of the Flag, Master George Gordon Meade, grandson of Maj.-Gen. Meade; Salute, Light Battery "C," 3d United States Artillery.

After the exercises the party will return to the Eagle Hotel for lunch, and then, under the supervision of Guide Minnigh, will go over the Battlefield, leaving for Harrisburg at 5 p. m.

Twelfth Anniversary.

The first of Oct. being the 12th anniversary of Rev. Dr. Joel Swartz's pastorate of St. James Church, this place, he presented the following brief summary of what has been accomplished in the congregation within that period.

When he took charge the membership was nominally 526, but the roll was in excess of the actual number to be found. The present membership is 731, of which number there have been added by the present pastor 598 as follows: by certificate 175, by confirmation 363 by restoration 34, by baptism 26. Infant baptism 245, marriages solemnized 173, deaths 120.

The number of families in the congregation is 350, of which over 100 are outside of the borough limits and are spread over 25 square miles of territory, making pastoral work very arduous. In the same period the church edifice has been remodeled, enlarged and greatly beautified at an expense of from $11,000 to $12 000, all of which was promptly paid for. In the meantime also, the parsonage has been remodeled and made much more comfortable and attractive in appearance, with no debt remaining for the improvement.

The pastor is glad to be able to say that peace and harmony reign throughout the church. Whilst very much more could and ought to have been done in the spiritual upbuilding and enlargement of the church and very much more in the way of benevolence, in which there has been a steady, though tardy improvement, yet upon the whole, the pastor is hopeful and thanking God takes courage for the future.

The rally of the Sunday School and the Y P. S. C. E. in the evening was well attended and very interesting. D.

LETTERS PATENT.—Mr. Eph. H. Minnigh, who some years ago invented a patent cash drawer, and which has been in use by many merchants, has at last received his final papers covering his patent. He is now at work on several improvements.

Hitherto these duties have been distributed among several persons. Rev. Dr. Charles S. Albert, of Baltimore, was elected to fill the position, to take effect January 1st next. Dr. Albert is now a pastor and was President of the last General Synod. He was born in Hanover in 1847, was graduated at our College in 1867, and has been pastor at Lancaster, Carlisle and Baltimore.—Star.

LATEST G. A. R. STATISTICS.—The returns of the G. A. R. for June 30, 1893, give the membership in good standing 397,-223. The number of posts is 7,636 The Departments report memberships delinquent 4 670, and remaining suspended 41,661. Net loss in memberships in the past year was 2,657. To June 30, 1893 $178,845 have been expended in charity. Since these records have been kept there has been reported under this head $2 500,000. The report of Quartermaster General Taylor shows receipts $21 840, and expenses $9 652; balance in treasury, $12 187.

From Fairfield.

Last week the weather was fine, and the ground in good condition for seeding, and farmers improved it to their utmost. The work of seeding is about completed except some small patches of corn-stalk ground.

We have had several frosts, but very little damage is reported in the cornfields.

C. J. Sefton returned on Monday evening from his trip west. He traveled with his eyes wide open and can give a very interesting sketch of the Big Fair, and other places of interest. He brought with him his daughter, Belle, who has been in Anderson, Ind., for about three years. Miss Nannie Sefton left on Thursday for Anderson, Ind.

Mr. David Wilson, who has been in the west for a long time, is spending a short time visiting his sister, Mrs. A. O Scott, and other friends here.

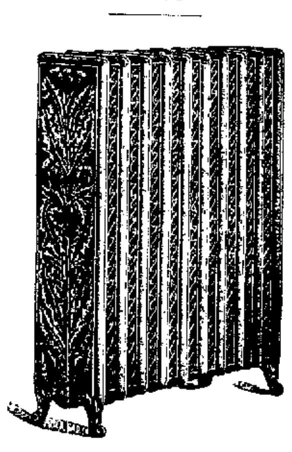
Perfection

Herewith is given an exact representation of the "Perfection" Radiator, which, like the "Florida" Steam Heater, is unexcelled. Your attention for a few moments, and the "reason why" is obvious. For either steam or hot water; free, unobstructed and large openings for the passage of steam and water; neatest and most ornamental; its ornamentation is such that, when bronzed, it will harmonize with its surroundings even when placed in a room with the most elegant furnishings; has a graceful finish; flat top; will not break, nor accumulate dirt. Any letters of inquiry, or other communications, will receive prompt and careful attention. Catalogues will be furnished on application.



THE "PERFECTION."

We take pleasure in answering all inquiries, and will also make plans, specifications and give estimates relative to the introduction of the "Florida" Steam Heater in your house.

Don't forget that besides handling the "Florida" and "Perfection" we are plumbers, gas-fitters, etc., and any orders left with us will be executed in a workmanlike manner.

Farm Notes.

THE fodder cutter is one of the most useful and important implements on the farm. It is not used as much as it should be, for it demands hard work if there is no power to be obtained, but it will enable the farmer to use a large amount of coarse food that is usually wasted. The fodder cutter should be kept in constant use during the winter.

IT is believed by some farmers that no harm will be done wheat if the cows graze on it for a short time after the wheat is well on in growth, but as there is always a liability of damage when the ground is somewhat soft it should be avoided. The young plants are very watery, and may cause looseness of the bowels which may also affect the flow of milk. Experiments that have been made in that direction show that the wheat is in no manner benefitted by allowing cattle to graze upon it.

HAVE a place for every tool or implement used on the farm, and store it under shelter during the winter, first giving the parts that are composed of iron a coating of kerosene as a protection against rust, while the parts composed of wood should be well rubbed with linseed oil.

IT is well known that in the late fall, when the cows are taken from the pasture, and put upon dry food, there is usually a shrinkage of the milk supply. This happens nearly always when there is a complete change of food. As frost may now appear at any time it is better to begin with dry food now allowing a small quantity at first, and gradually increasing the dry ration so as to prepare the cows for the change which will soon be necessary and which cannot be avoided.

IT is not so far off from Thanksgiving, hence the turkeys need attention at this season. Those intended for market should receive a meal at the barnyard at night, and later on they should receive food twice a day, so as to have them in a fat condition when the time arrives for their slaughter.

WHETHER lightning rods are a protection or injury on the farm, is a subject worthy the attention of scientists. There is a diversity of views on the matter, and more light is needed by those interested. Much depends on the connections, as is known, but whether the rods prevent lightning from doing injury entirely or not is yet to be settled.

DOES it pay to buy fertilizers when you can grow clover sod that is estimated to be worth $12 per acre for that purpose? Remember that besides the sod, you get a hay crop that is clear profit.

OVERFEEDING and underfeeding both lead to the same end—a reduction of the profits. Underfeeding stunts growth, and overfeeding is a waste of food and of time. Never place before an animal more than it will eat up clean, with any intermission to consider whether it wants it all.

WASTEFUL feeding increases the cost of the animal. See that you feed in such a way that the food placed before an animal is consumed, and not dragged down and fouled under foot. We have been in stables where the cows bedded themselves with good clover hay. Comfortable, but expensive.

LAND long left to grass and natural herbage or in wood becomes richer in nitrogen; that under tillage poorer. In the soil of forest there is said to be no nitrates. From drained lands under tillage there is considerable animal loss of nitrates, and drained lands in pasture and meadow also lose nitrogen as nitrates, although there is accumulation of nitrogen at the surface in the humus (decayed vegetable matter).

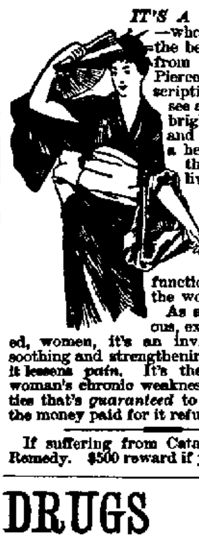
DRONES live a shorter time than workers. Kept in a queenless hive they may live three or four months. Being useless, except for mating purposes, the workers soon get rid of them. It is supposed that when their usefulness is at an end, they are driven out to perish, but it may be that they live out their alloted time and in the throes of death the workers take them out to die.

IT is useless to try to make a poor cow over into a good one by extra feeding of grain. It will only fatten her and then she will be fit for the fate due all poor cows—to go to the butcher. There is a limit to which every cow may be brought by feeding. If it is not at least 250 pounds of butter per year, turn the cow into beef and replace her with another. This is the time of year that cows have chapped and sore teats. Vaseline is recommended. Grease them every milking till they are well. Mutton tallow and kerosene, two parts, to one, for winter use, is as good, especially if a few drops of carbolic acid be added to each half-pound. To prepare the "ointment" melt the tallow and stir in the oil while it is cooling.

THE small farmer will be a greater factor in our agriculture during the next generation that he has been in the past. We are developing a wide area of lands which will be cultivated by irrigation. Irrigated land is too valuable to handle carelessly or to devote to any products except those which will make a large money return an acre. Small farmers will settle upon these lands, and, taking a few acres each, make a garden farm of their holdings.

DR. VOELCKER, the well-known chemist of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, regards the popular idea that morning's milk is of better quality than that drawn in the evening as a fallacy. As far as his experience goes, he says the result depends on the quality and quantity of the food which is given to the cows four or five hours before milking. "If the supply of food given in the daytime be good and plentiful, and that furnished in the evening be unnutritious and scanty, the evening's milk is of the better quality. On the other hand, when the cows get a good supply of rich food in the evening and are stinted or fed upon very watery food during the daytime, the evening milk is the poorer."

TRACTION ENGINES ON THE ROAD.—The law relating to traction engines says: "Every engine propelled by steam must have a man at least 300 yards ahead of the engine to warn persons riding or driving upon any public road, of the fact that the engine is coming, and also to 'assist' in the management of any horse or horses that may require his assistance to control. It also requires the engines to run as far as practicable to the sides of the road to remain stationary until said horse or horses have passed to a safe distance, in the meantime making as little noise as possible with the steam." The penalty for failing to comply with the law is a fine of ten dollars and costs. The law further requires the man in charge of the engine to have a printed copy posted on his engine under the fine of ten dollars.



IT'S A QUEER WOMAN—who cannot understand the benefit to be derived from the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Did you ever see a sickly woman with bright eyes, clear skin, and rosy cheeks? Or a healthy one without them? A woman can live in full health, do more work, have more pleasure, amount to more, by taking the "Prescription." When the bodily functions are not regular the woman is delicate. As a support for nervous, exhausted, overworked, women, it's an invigorating tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine; besides, it lessens pain. It's the only remedy for woman's chronic weaknesses and irregularities that's guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money paid for it refunded.

Seasonable Recipes.

Hot Sauce.—Scald and peel 24 ripe tomatoes; add 10 peppers, cut fine; two quarts of vinegar, one onion, two tablespoonfuls of salt, one-half cup of sugar one tablespoonful of allspice, one tablespoonful of cloves, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, and boil three hours or until the moisture becomes thick.

Ohio Catsup.—Three dozen cucumbers, eight onions, chopped fine; sprinkle with half pint of salt, place them in a colander and let them drain for eight hours; add one teacupful of mustard seed, one-half cup of pepper; put all in a jar and cover with vinegar.

To Keep Cider Sweet.—Put in a barrel of cider one quart of mustard seed in a cloth bag. Another way is to get of your druggist a preparation of lime specially prepared for the purpose, using one-half ounce to each 10 gallons of cider. First mix the lime with a little cider to the consistency of cream, shake the barrel well after putting it in, and after five days draw off the cider into another barrel.

Crystallized Pear.—Use only absolutely perfect fruit, because the cores are to remain intact. For a dozen pears beat the whites of two fresh eggs only until they are liquid and smooth, and sift a large dish of confectioners' sugar. Leave stems on the pears and peel them very thin and smoothly. When peeled hold each one by the stem, roll it in the beaten egg until all parts are moistened, then in the sugar, to thoroughly coat the entire surface, and dry the pears upon a large dish. If the first application of the egg and sugar does not cover the fruit repeat it. To serve the fruit arrange it upon a glass or china dish for desert.

Baked Chicken.—An appetizing way to cook chicken is to cut it in pieces, as if for a fricassee. Dip the pieces in beaten egg and then in fine bread crumbs. Season with salt, pepper and minced parsley. Put them in the dripping pan with bits of butter over them, and a little water in the pan. Bake slowly until they are done. Put the chicken upon a hot dish, make a rich gravy of the contents of the pan and pour over them. Garnish the dish with parsley.

Noodle Soup.—Take four ounces of flour, very little salt and two yolks of eggs, with which make tolerably firm paste. Roll it out very thin taking care to sprinkle some flour on the table so that the paste does not stick. Fold it in two, cut it in very thin slices of about an inch long and blanch them in cold water 10 minutes, after which put in cold water for a moment, drain and serve in three pints of boiling consomme.

Federal Cake.—One pound of flour, one pound of sugar, half a pound of butter, five eggs, one teacup of cream, one glass of brandy, the grated peel of one lemon, a little mace, and one pound of fruit.

Vermicelli Soup.—Boil a shin of veal in four quarts of water. Skim it very carefully, then put in one onion, one carrot and a turnip, not cut up, and boil three hours. Add salt, two cups of vermicelli and boil an hour and a half longer. Remove the bone and vegetables and serve.

Corn Pudding.—Score one dozen ears of corn down through the centre of each grain, then press out the contents. Add one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper and a pint of milk. Separate four eggs, beat the whites until they are very stiff, then beat the yolks, add them to the whites and beat again. Stir this mixture carefully into the first, turn into a greased flat baking dish and bake in a moderately quick oven until a nice brown and thoroughly set—about twenty-five minutes. Shake it and if the centre seems firm the pudding is done. If you cook a moment too long it will curdle and become watery.

HOW TO DARN STOCKINGS.—The secret of successful darning stockings lies in "running" the thread of the darning cotton so far on each side of the hole that it does not immediately fray and pull out of the goods. Take a long thread of darning cotton to begin with and run it at least half an inch along the goods on each side of the hole. Continue this until the hole is snugly covered. Now cross these threads in the regular darning style, taking care that the same precaution is observed. A large hole requires a patch. Such holes almost always occur in the heel, so that in treating of the method of mending them it is safe to take the heel for a model.

From the leg of an old stocking cut a kite shaped piece about 5 inches long and 4 inches across. Turn the stocking wrong-side out and lay the kite upon the heel so that the long pointed end runs up the back of the leg and the lower rounded part is at the base of the heel. "Run" down the center of the kite with a stout linen thread, taking rather large loose stitches. Now "run" in the same way across the kite shaped piece, letting the thread be very slack. Next sew the patch tightly to the heel by stitching it around the outside. If deftly done, there will be neither wrinkle nor crease. Patches made of material other than bits of old stockings are apt to be harsh.

MAKE NO EXTRA WORK.—The golden rule in housework should be "make no extra work," writes Juliet Corson in a valuable article on "The Routine of the Household" in the October Ladies Home Journal. Have a system of living, and maintain it. Have a place for everything, and keep everything in its place. Near the entrance door have suitable holders for coats, hats, wraps, umbrellas, canes, over and outdoor shoes, ect., and see that they are kept there. In the sitting-room have a place for writing and sewing materials, and a special table for books magazines and papers, and insist upon it that they shall be put there instead of being left where they drop from the reader's hands only to be picked up by the tired mother, whose work in some households seems never-ending.

HOW MONKEYS CROSS A RIVER.—When the Ateles wish to cross a river, the strongest ascend a high tree overlooking the stream. The leader, hooking his tail firmly to a limb, drops downward, while the next attaches himself to his predecessor, and so on, forming a long chain of monkeys. This swings to and fro until the end monkey grasps a limb upon the opposite bank. Along this living suspension bridge the troop passes over, a mischievous monkey occasionally playing off a practical joke on some member as he hurries forward. To get the bridge across the first monkey lets go and the chain swings over, perhaps ducking one or two, when all unfasten, and catching at the branches descend.

It Tastes Good

One reason why Scott's Emulsion of Pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda has had such a large sale is because it is "Almost as palatable as milk;" but the best reason is that its curative properties are unequalled. It cures the cough, supplies the waste of tissues, produces flesh and builds up the entire system.

Scott's Emulsion cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Scrofula, and all Anaemic and Wasting Diseases. Prevents wasting in children. Almost as palatable as milk. Get only the genuine. Prepared by Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York. Sold by all Druggists.

SHERIDAN'S Condition POWDER
Keep Chickens Strong and healthy; it gets your pullets to laying early; it is worth its weight in gold when hens moult; it prevents all disease, Cholera, Roup, Diarrhœa, Leg-weakness. It is a powerful food digestive. Large cans are most economical to buy.
NOTHING ON EARTH WILL MAKE HENS LAY LIKE SHERIDAN'S CONDITION POWDER
Therefore, no matter what kind of feed you use, mix with it daily Sheridan's Powder. Otherwise, your profit this fall and winter will be lost when the price for eggs is very high. It assures perfect assimilation of the food elements needed to produce health and form eggs.
It is absolutely pure; highly concentrated, therefore used in small doses; no other kind one fourth as strong. In quantity it costs less than one-tenth cent a day per hen. "One large can saved me $40; send six more to prevent roup this winter" says a customer. Sold by druggists, grocers and feed dealers. No other ever made like it.
If You Can't Get It Near Home, Send to Us. Ask First.
We send postpaid one pack for 25c.; Five $1. One large can $1.20. Six cans $5, express paid. Sample copy of "the best poultry paper published," sent free. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 Custom House Street, Boston, Mass.

READ.—SPEAR HEAD possesses more qualities of intrinsic value than any other plug tobacco produced. It is the sweetest, the toughest, the richest. SPEAR HEAD is absolutely, positively and distinctively different in flavor from any other plug tobacco. A trial will convince the most skeptical of this fact. It is the largest seller of any similar shape and style on earth, which proves that it has caught the popular taste and pleases the people. Try it, and participate in the contest for prizes. See that a TIN TAG is on every 10 cent piece of SPEAR HEAD you buy. Send in the tags, no matter how small the quantity.

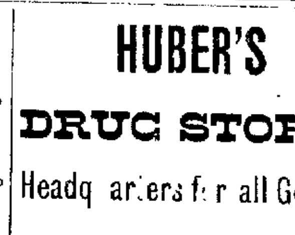
THE FENCE QUESTION SOLVED
—BY—



THE KITSELMAN WOVEN WIRE-FENCE-MACHINE.
BEST FENCE MADE.

Will make over 20 Different Styles of Woven Wire Fencing
and also a Slat and Wire Fence.
The Greatest Invention of the Age.
Heretofore, WOVEN WIRE FENCING has been a luxury, the price being so high that only the wealthy could afford to buy it. This Machine brings it within the reach of all—so low, indeed, that it will not pay to waste money on any other kind of fence. This is the only Machine on earth that you can take into the field and make a woven wire fence. A man to work the Machine and a boy to spool the mesh wire, can make and put on the posts from 40 to 50 rods per day. Over TWENTY different styles of fence can be made on this Machine. IT IS VERY SIMPLE AND DOES NOT REQUIRE A SKILLED PERSON TO RUN IT. The fence can be made light for yard or lawn, or it for a farm, and is desired, can be made strong enough to stand a breaking strain of 10,000 pounds. It takes up but little room, and is fire and wind proof. IT IS THE COMING FENCE. For prices or other information apply to or address
